

E. E. Cummings: To be nobody but yourself in a world which is doing its best, night and day, to make you everybody else - means to fight the hardest battle which any human being can fight; and never stop fighting. "As long as lots of money is recognized as the most important achievement of our lives, hearts will continue to suffer.

Hope (C. E. 1984)

I irradiate you with my patience and lavish you with my love. I am waiting for spring, the late one. It will come, even after my death, but it will come.

Breyten Breytenbach "He who ignores the humanity of another denies his own." "Only those who move hearts have the power to change the world. "

Ernst Wiechert: Only those who move hearts have the power to change the world. "

Ernst Freiherr von Feuchtersleben: Arrogance is the caricature of pride, according to Ernst Freiherr von Feuchtersleben. Some roosters believe that they cause the sun to rise.

2. Marie von Ebner-Eschenbach: Anyone who feels too big to do small tasks is too small to be entrusted with big tasks. 2. Vanity begins where reason ends. 3. Vanity has more clout than shame.

Lucius Annaeus Seneca: He who has little is poor, but he who desires much is poor.

Aldous Huxley: You don't get rid of facts by ignoring them.

Oliver Hassencamp: Love doesn't make you blind. The lover only sees far more than is actually there.

Blaise Pascal: A drop of love is worth more than an ocean of mind.

Abraham Lincoln: If you want to know a man's character, give him power.

Jimi Hendrix: When the power of love triumphs over the love of power, the world will find peace.

Otto von Bismarck: If a pact is made, no matter how harmless it looks, between two powers, you immediately have to ask yourself who is supposed to be killed here.

Albert Einstein:

1. The best things in life are not the things that money can buy.
2. A life geared primarily to the fulfillment of personal needs will sooner or later lead to bitter disappointment.
3. The world is not threatened by those who are evil, but by those who allow evil to happen.

4. It's harder to shatter a preconception than an atom.
5. Imagination is more important than knowledge because knowledge is limited.
6. Personalities are not formed by fine speeches, but by work and personal achievement. "
7. Striving for social justice is the most valuable thing in life. "
8. The most important realization of my life is that we live in a loving universe. "
9. The purpose of life is not to be a successful person, but a valuable one.

Nelson Mandela: No one is born hating other people because of their skin color, race, or religion. Hate is learned. And if you can learn to hate, you can also learn to love. Because love is a much more natural feeling in a person's heart than its opposite, Where love grows, life thrives; where hatred arises, there is a risk of decline.

Buddha: Love is what makes you smile when you are tired.

Buddha: We are what we think. Everything we are arises from our thoughts. We form the world with our thoughts.

Buddha: The way is not in heaven. The way is in the heart.

Dalai Lama: Respect yourself, others, and accept responsibility for your actions.

Carl Gustav Jung: Where love reigns, there is no will to power.

Martin Luther King said, "We must learn to live together as brothers or perish as fools."

Martin Luther King: Love is the only power capable of turning an enemy into a friend.

Osho: When you love yourself, you love those around you. If you hate yourself, you will hate those around you. Your relationship with others is just a reflection of yourself.

The cruelty of the powerless expresses itself as indifference.